

This sequence diagram shows how different state of the game is changed. Generally, the game will start with a home state, then to the setup state, then to the game and finally the ending state where the winner is shown. If the player chose not to play the game again, it change the state to None and the game is closed.

